Buechel Water District Hits Snag In Extension Plan To Fern Creek

Hopes of the Buechel Water District to extend its lines to the Fern Creek School, assuming the institution an adequate city water supply by next term, exploded in this city Wednesday, at least temporarily halted the plan.

The ignition spark was provided by the Jefferson County Fiscal Court which required posting of a $150,000 bond to insure repair of 4 1/2 miles of county roads that would be damaged in the expansion program.

Agreements with four contracting firms already had been reached to carry out the program and formal signing of contracts had been set for Saturday. Work was to have been started in two weeks, weather permitting.

Bill Rice, chairman of the District Board, said it would be impossible to raise such a bond. He added that the county might even require the District to repave some of the roads along which the new mains would be laid.

The Fiscal Court, he admitted, was the governing body of the county and that the District must abide by its rulings. However, he planned to call a meeting of property owners in the Buechel area to determine if they are willing to give easements through their lots on routes planned for the new mains.

The State Highway Department already granted permission for laying a line along Ardmore Road, a state thoroughfare. Service to residents along county roads branching out from Bardonia Road would be necessary to finance the service to Fern Creek and the remainder part of the expansion program.

Roads along which the District planned to construct mains are Waterson Trail North, Fair Ground Road, Fern Creek Road, Fendale Road and Waterson Trail South, near Fendale Road.

Mrs. Bradley Dies; Rites Held Monday

Mrs. Carrie L. Bradley, 73, widow of the late Bradley, died at 4 a.m. last Friday in a nursing home in Jeffersonville. She lived with her sister, Mrs. R. S. Schaefer, Jeffersonville.

Other survivors are a daughter, Miss Lillian Haag, Indianapolis; three sons, Edwin H. Bradley, Lexington; Shirley D. Bradley, Lexington; and Robert S. Bradley, Lexington; a brother, Charles J. Simpson, Punta Gorda, Fla., and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. Monday in Myers Funeral Home, Jeffersonville. Interment was in Evergreen Cemetery. Mrs. Bradley was a member of the Fourth Avenue Baptist Church.

THE FERN CREEK HOME-MAKERS Club will meet Wednesday, March 13, at 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. J. H. Hornbeck on Kentonville Road, for its regular monthly meeting.

Smith's Weekly Digest of Actions Of 1952 State General Assembly

By Tom Smith

The Kentucky General Assembly turns into the home stretch this week with practically all administration major measures approved and the house quickly due to take over on Wednesday.

This means that all legislation awaiting committee action is turned over to single committees in each house which determine whether it is to be brought out for a vote. The Rules Committee are all-powerful and generally follow administration policy.

Meantime, the legislators spent much of their time last week on bills pertaining to the home stretch and the Congressional reapportionment. The redistricting measure passed both houses quickly and is ready for the Governor's signature.

It cuts the state's congressional districts from nine to eight in accordance with dictates of the national population shift. Major in the shift was adding three Republican counties to the Democratic First District and a Democratic county to the Republican Second District.

There may be other administration measures yet to come which is akin to the reapportionment measure but at this level. This would be in line with a Kentucky constitutional requirement calling for a reapportionment of State and House districts every ten years if the census shows a serious imbalance of population representation.

New 600-Home Subdivision Proposed For Jeffersontown

Two building permits were granted Evan Romine by the Town Council of Jeffersontown last night. The permits were for two houses to be built on Maple Avenue, adjacent to A. G. Ormsby and Ira G. White. A permit was also granted to James Curry, who is building a residence on West Waterson Trail.

Visitors at the Council meeting included Mayor William Higdon, Son, developers for the proposed new subdivision on the west side of the Waterson Trail. The property consists of a farm comprising 125 acres now owned by T. C. Carwardine. The developers took up the matter of annexation of the property by the Town.

The subdivision, if developed under present plans, would include approximately 600 houses. The developers want to be assured of water and sewage disposal service. The project depends on the working out of details with the Louisville and Jefferson County Board of Health and local water and sewerage commission.

Some objection was voiced at the Council meeting, but the present design provides for some of the lots having less than 90-foot frontage.

With the plan "Answer the Call," the American Red Cross makes its annual appeal March 11-21 for funds to carry on its relief, nursing and international work. The goal for Louisville and Jefferson County is $452,385.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Thierman; a daughter, Miss Joyce Elizabeth Brown, and a son, Stanley Schmidt, who left Thursday for the North Carolina to up his studies at a Chaplain in the Air Force. Present besides the family was Mr. Bob Jut, a friend of the family.

EDUCATIONAL UNION THRU COOPERATION

Plans for merging the city and county school systems here in Jefferson County have developed more confusion as the discussions have been promoted by leaders in both areas. At least that is so as regards some of the phases of the proposed merger.

There are, looking toward the future, and without a doubt, possibilities for correlating the entire county's educational activities and processes as a unit. The mere fact that county areas, through city expansion, are becoming more and more urban serves to verify such assumption.

But with all the light that has been shed on the general situation by the public discussion during the past few months, open-minded observers have yet to see justification for immediate steps toward the merger. The whole situation is changing—growing into something different as the entire area becomes more densely populated.

The course which, to us, promises most toward a satisfactory solution in the interest of future developments is that of close cooperation between the two boards for the present, looking toward a possible merger within the next few years. It doesn't seem susceptible to being pushed by an over application of artificial pressure.

It has been brought out that there is a limit to the program of improvements which would be expected immediately following a merger. Those in charge of both present systems have declared that their prospects for revenue are not very promising for drastic changes for improvement.

Meanwhile all of our citizens should lend their minds to consideration of the schools and the need for improvement, as may come as the situation develops in the course of time.

OBERLIN'S Observations

Tournament time!

And four of this Kentucky is going to have this year its six major college and universities in three tournaments which are the golden pathway to the Olympic Trials.

That speaks volumes about the quality of basketball teams that are produced in a state that heretofore has been more famous for its bourbon, beauty and those outgrowths.

University of Kentucky, by virtue of winning the Southeastern Conference, goes to the N. C. A. A. tourney.

University of Louisville and Western State College, by virtue of taking on all comers, no matter how tough, and coming up with a record of 18-0, will play in the National Invitational.

And rough, tough little Murray, runner-up in the Ohio Valley Conference championship, will play in the N. A. A. B. tournament.

The quality of the Thoroughbred came is proven by the down-to-the-wire battle they gave Western before losing by only a couple of points.

The winner of these four tournaments is eligible to play in the Olympic Trials, along with winners of some AAU elimination tournaments. Wouldn't it be something if three Kentucky colleges and universities in three tournaments which are the golden pathway to the Olympic Trials?

As a matter of fact, Murray and UK have better than average chances of winning—Murray because it will be playing against teams which are not much better than the average of their regular season schedule, and UK because—well, our big state school simply is basketball powerhouse—and the boys play best when the chips are down.

It is much less likely that Louisville, which ranks about 13th in the nation, and Western ranked about 18th, can either one come through the Invitational—which will be the toughest of the big tournaments. In the first place, they are likely to be matched against each other in the first round.

It is a matter who wins what, though, our state institutions this year have decisively proved to the sports world that have been the only sports for which the Bluegrass State is justly famous!

Sparks and Sundries

By Samuel H. Stuart

TO ONE going about from place to place and hearing many people express themselves in often apparent that too many Americans have something of an inferior attitude toward the government. The government in a republic should never be regarded as a lofty and dread force over the individual. It is not superior to the citizen but is designed to be his servant—collectively he is the dominant force, the master.

FROM THIS rather prevalent attitude of cringing to a certain degree before officialdom there is danger that an actual autocratic control might be encouraged to develop. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" and without true individualism and without vigilance is inclined to be relaxed and would-be despots encouraged. When we are opposed to some government practice or feel that it represents some threat to our proper freedom we should say so firmly and boldly. The citizen is of the ruling class—he is vested with the power of the state in his own right, so much modesty and abjection does not become one possessed of such prerogative. To fail to maintain this attitude is to encourage high-handed officials who, in time, might turn into tyrants, unendurable in a free democracy.

THE NECESSITY of citizens maintaining a vigilant attitude respecting their civil rights being respected may be seen from this experience which I had several years ago. I had a fair claim on a state agency to collect a certain sum of money. To file the claim I agreed but as I turned I paid with a check. Though I pressed the claim I was put off for a long time. The present was in those office at the time were voted out. Renewing my claim for enlightenment, as it may be called, I employed a lawyer, which I did. Upon investigating, he found that I had paid, for which I had paid a fee, was not recorded and he refused to press the case, saying I had had run so long that I would have to have straight out the snail. Taking my cancelled check to the agency which I had paid the fee, I explained the circumstances and asked for a refund.

THE CLERK asked me to leave the check and call later, that the man in charge of such matters was out. I agreed but as I turned I saw him pick up the check, tear it in two and flip it into the wastebasket. I let it pass but resolved never again to be deprived of my proper rights in such a way again, and I had forgot those who arrogated them.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals held that distribution of $26,212, 500 in annual public school funds to local school districts must be on the basis of children living within a school district and not on the basis of the average daily attendance in public schools.

The decision reversed a ruling of Franklin Circuit Judge William B. Ardrey, who upheld contentions of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce in which a new method of distribution was sought. The Appellate Court said that for more than a century public school funds have been distributed under the present formula and that a Constitutional Amendment will be necessary to bring about a change.

Had the Chamber of Commerce suit been successful, districts with a heavy parochial school population would have suffered heavily.

The number of cases of tuberculosis is on the increase in Kentucky, although the death rate is declining. The Kentucky Tuberculosis Sanatoria Commission said in its annual report.

There are some 12,000 cases in the state at present, the report said. The state's six tuberculosis hospitals admitted 1,000 patients last year, discharged 400 with medical advice and transferred 50 to other hospitals.

George L. Johnson, director of the Department of Agriculture's Division of Weights and Measures, said that all of the state's gasoline pumps—between 4,000 and 50,000 of them—will be tested for accuracy by June.

The Kentucky Department of Agriculture has already started the inspections. It is charged by law with seeing that all commercial scales and measuring devices are accurate.

BE MARKET WISE

Buy the head — a head of lettuce, or choose cabbage for variety — in both cases they furnish crisp green vegetable and keep the cost low. Look for lettuce that is firm and heavy for its size. Hand-weight the head in your covered container. Do not move the core unless the lettuce is fresh, green, crisp leaves, unbruised.

ed or unwilted. The core at base should be firm and light colored, not too closely trimmed.
Use all the head — the outer green leaves for shredded salads or shred the leaves and nest them under any salad you choose. It's the green lettuce leaf that gives more vitamin A, that adds not only crispness but flavor as well to sandwich that goes to school or to work.
Store lettuce cool — at home from the market, trim if necessary, wash under running cold water, store in vegetable bag or covered container. Do not move the core unless the lettuce is fresh, green, crisp leaves, unbruised.

... store after trimming the base of the core as little as possible. Serve often — but vary the way. Lettuce has more uses than just the not-to-be-eaten leaf — a tossed salad. Let there be a hot bacon dressing to please the family and remind the family of an old fashioned salad no moderns can beat.
Lettuce combines well with other foods. Celery, carrots, onions and tomatoes with lettuce may be the salad one day. Toss together lettuce leaves with cauliflower florets and sliced radishes — a tangy dressing will make it special.
Egg and Lettuce Salad Bowl — For four servings you'll need 1/2 head lettuce, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 hard cooked eggs, 1 teaspoon minced onion, 1/2 cup salad dressing. Wash and break lettuce into small portions. Sprinkle salt over lettuce, add onions and sliced eggs. Toss lightly with dressing just before serving.
Dressings are important — to make a 1000 Italian dressing mix together 1 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chopped olives, 1 tablespoon chopped pimientos, 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, 2 mashed hard cooked egg yolks, 1/3 cup chili sauce. A horseradish dressing may be made by combining 1 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons grated horseradish, 1 tablespoon vinegar.

FEEDER'S NOTEBOOK

by Emmett Mitchon
Graduate Feeding Advisor

"AIM YOUR CHICKS"

Every poultry grower is interested in profits, and profits are greatest when egg prices are highest. Successful poultrymen "aim their chicks" to start laying in August or early September because eggs are highest during the fall and early winter months.
If poultrymen are to "aim their chicks" so as to hit the period of high prices, they must start chicks in February or March. Good chicks must be purchased, even though they cost more. Poor quality chicks are expensive at any time. It's impossible to know how inferior chicks will perform, so you can't "aim them" for the period of high egg prices with any satisfactory degree of accuracy.
After being careful to buy good chicks, brood and grow them properly. Use a practical program of management, making sure you have good equipment such as houses, brooders, feeders and waterers. Careful sanitation is necessary to protect the birds from disease. Feed them a balanced ration that supplies the proper nutrients for life, growth and reproduction. Even with the best of chicks, management and sanitation science is possible only when there is proper feeding.

Will your pullets be in top production this fall when egg prices are best? They should if you "aim them" by buying good chicks, practicing good management, using careful sanitation measures and feeding a balanced and blended ration.

Mrs. Alden Kaufman had the misfortune of a sewing machine needle breaking off in her left forefinger. She was admitted to the Baptist Hospital for a fluoroscope and an x-ray. The needle was found crooked in the bone under the nail. An operation was necessary, needle was removed and bone scraped. Mrs. Kaufman is at home and her finger is doing fine.

Congratulations for a long and happy life to the newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rosenberger. The sudden death of Mr. Walter Smith, of Boulch Church Road, was a shock to all who knew him. To his family our most hearty sympathy is extended to those bereaved.

Jack Grove News

By Mrs. M. B. Graham

The sudden death of Mr. Walter Smith, Thursday afternoon, at his home on Beulah Church Road, was a terrible shock to his many friends and relatives in this community. His funeral was conducted from the McAfee Chapel Saturday at 3 p.m. Interment was in Resthaven Cemetery. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Geneva Coe Smith; and two daughters, Misses Genevieve and Doris Smith. Deepest sympathy is extended to those bereaved.

We are sorry to report Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Thacker quit ill with flu. Mr. Thacker seemed some better Monday morning.

Mrs. Pallie Burns received word that her brother, James Warren, 66, had passed away February 22, at his home in Indiana. Sympathy is extended.

Virgil Slaughter, who finished his basic training in San Diego, Cal., arrived home February 26 on furlough. He will leave March 11 for Camp Lejeune, N.C., where he will be stationed.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Flechler delightedly entertained with a birthday supper Sunday. The occasion being in honor of Master Michael Wayne Flechler, who was one year old March 1. Those who helped celebrate were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Flechler and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Smith; also Mr. and Mrs. John Flechler, Mr. and Mrs. Man-asse and Joyce Elaine.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Covington are on the sick list; also the Phillips family are down with the flu.

Mr. and Mrs. Lois Hayden were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Thacker, Tuesday afternoon. On Thursday he and a friend, Mr. Bob Wyrtick assisted Mr. Thacker with his work. Truly a friend in need.

Medames J. T. Smith and J. O. Smith and children were dinner guests, Thursday, of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Smith; also on Saturday evening they had as guests Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Smith and Mr. Robert Taylor.

Mrs. M. B. Graham had as callers, Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. F. S. Hayes and daughter, Mildred.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pearce delightedly entertained at dinner, Sunday, February 24, in honor of the birthday of her mother, Mrs. Pallie Burns. The table fairly groaned, so to speak, with the many good dishes of food and cakes galore. Mrs. Burns received many nice gifts, along with 65 greeting cards and $15. Those to enjoy this splendid occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Revo Burns, from Cardwell; Mr. and Mrs. Arley Burns, Mr. and Mrs. T. Ward, Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Warner and son, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Ruby and Mrs. Zula Rowan, Nashville; Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smith, Mrs. Elva Miller, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Wilkins, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Burns, Mrs. Beadie Warner, Mrs. George Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pearce, Ronny and David, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Pearce and Maureen and Little Bill, Mrs. Maxine Ruby and son, Elva Hawkins and Mr. Richard Scottaday and Viola Burns. This was indeed a gala affair.

Mr. J. C. Martin, Fern Creek, called Saturday afternoon to see his uncle, Mr. M. B. Graham, and Mrs. Graham.

Mr. E. E. Thacker had word that her brother, Mr. Bryan Holloway, and Mrs. Holloway would arrive in Louisville Monday night after visiting their son, Lt. Kenneth Holloway and family in the Panama Canal Zone, where he is stationed at Port Koke. On their way home they spent a Sunday in Miami, Fla. According to report it has been a wonderful trip.

Miss Lilly Veto, Louisville, was week-end guest of Miss Vivian Lee in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Smith.

We are sorry we got the grand-daughter names mixed. Jennifer Lynn Jarner is the grandbaby of Mrs. Oda Farmer and Charlotte Lee is the Wise baby, at Lebanon.

Brentlinger Lane

By Mrs. Mary Holloway

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robertson entertained last Tuesday for lunch, the following: Mr. and Mrs. James A. McCullough and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Croft.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kleinstuber entertained Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kleinstuber and daughter, Sally.

Mrs. Mary Holloway attended the L & N Veterans meeting, Sunday afternoon, in Louisville.

Carolyn Sue Haag was week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Haag in Louisville.

Not much news this week, most everyone has been sick with the flu.

Mrs. Katie Green has left the hospital, we are glad to report, and Mr. Dock Truitt left Monday. Both are doing fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robertson were 6 o'clock dinner guests Tuesday, of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Croft, in Louisville.

Mrs. Mary Holloway was lunch guest of Miss Mary Cheatham, Saturday, at the Blue Room. Glad to report Mrs. Earl Sewell is improving.

Mrs. Arthur Gelhaus and son, Billy, called Saturday night to see his mother, Mrs. L. D. Gelhaus, who has been ill in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sewell.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. Henry Gelhaus, who departed this life March 3.

Bales Lane News

By Mrs. L. M. Bishop

We are sorry to hear of so many sick in the community. Hope they will soon be recovered.

The Cub Scouts of High View had their first pack meeting, February 29. It was a big success. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Preston, Mr. Baron Beck and Mrs. L. M. Bishop completed a 5-week Cub Scout training course, February 28.

Mr. Kenneth Reeves spent Sunday, February 24, on an all day camping trip as a requirement for his son, Butch, a 5-week training course for Scout leadership. Mr. Reeves and Mr. J. S. Hornbuckle will soon start a Boy Scout troop.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Hornbuckle and Brenda were recent Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Garner, in Louisville.

The women's bowling team beat Ninth and O Baptist team three games Saturday and the men's team beat Eastern Parkway Baptist. We are not proud since we are such a small church.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Earl Kelly gave a birthday party for her son, Butch, who was three years old. The following children helped him celebrate: Carolyn and Janie Kessler, Billie Joe Kelley, Janie May, Norm, Sharone, Randy Ryan, Sue Legal, Carolyn Parrott, Robbie Kelly, Linda Legal. The mothers who attended were: Mrs. Bethel Parrott, Mrs. Wilbur Kessler, Mrs. Martin Ryan, and Mrs. Bob Legal. Mrs. Joe Kelley was also present. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wesley and family have been ill. Mary Lee Kaufman.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Kaufman, Doris and Tommy, were callers of Mrs. Arthur L. Kanan and family. Their son, Junnie, has been ill in the hospital. He is some better.

Miss Genevieve Brentlinger was Saturday afternoon caller of Miss Mary Lee Kaufman.

THE AMERICAN WAY

If my mail may be considered a criterion, people in all walks of life, all over the country, especially housewives, are beginning to wake up. They show signs of coming out of their lethargy, are finally realizing that if they don't like things as they are, maybe they should try to do something about it. That's good, yes, it's wonderful. It's exactly what, in my small way, I have, for more than fifteen years, been trying to bring about.

As one of my correspondents expressed it, "I've gone along for years feeling that no matter how bad things were, there wasn't anything I could do about it. I've had doubt that anyone will pay any attention to what one lone automobile mechanic has to say. But, now, with things getting steadily worse all the time, with one boy in the service and another one about to go, with taxes sky high and prices going up and up, maybe I'd better try to do something and I wish you'd tell me what I can do."

I'm very glad to have an opportunity to tell this chap, the others who have written to me and millions of other Americans who have had the same defeatist attitude, what they can do.

Public Opinion

Let's get one thing straight in the very beginning, which is that in a Republic, public opinion is always, yes, I mean always—there are no exceptions—the final controlling power. What is public opinion? It's nothing more or less than the sum total of the things people are thinking about, their thoughts, ideas and beliefs.

The one place where it does more good than any place else for each of us as individuals citizens to express his opinion is to our representatives in Congress. Each of us has three such representatives: the congressman from our district and the two senators from our state.

But I hear someone say, "It doesn't do any good for me to write to my congressman; he'd never see my letter and if he did, he wouldn't pay any attention to it." That's exactly what the bureaucrats who are running the country and running the state and the clique which is trying to kill constitutional government and destroy freedom of enterprise want you to believe. As long as they can keep the individual citizen from expressing his views to members of Congress, they'll be able to keep on getting away with "murder" just as they have for a great many years.

These people are false prophets.

Read Mail

I know, I've been in close touch with hundreds of members of Congress for a great many years and I know that every congressman and senator always pays close attention to his mail every day.

When the volume of mail is too large, it's perfectly true that a member of Congress doesn't personally read every letter. But even so, every letter that reaches his office is carefully read by a competent member of his staff. Its contents are noted and a summary of the previous day's mail is on his desk the first thing every morning. This is the principal way in which every member of Congress keeps in touch with the sentiments of the people in his district or state, and what his constituents believe has a tremendous influence on the position he takes and on the way he votes.
